Happy New Year 2015 from Mia Naprta, Market Analyst
and Hazel Lee, Product Development Scientist!

1. Nutcracker Brittle bar

The Nutcracker Brittle bar by Theo Chocolate is made with seductively smooth and rich 70% dark chocolate with the delicious crunch of almonds, hazelnuts and buttery toffee. All ingredients are organic, Fair Trade, Fair-for-Life, soy free, non-GMO certified as well as kosher and vegan.

2. Cocoa pod drinking chocolate

The new Sir Hans Sloane Single Serve Drinking Chocolate contains a dark chocolate cocoa pod filled with chocolate beads. The cocoa pod can be placed into a mug, and with the addition of hot water or milk it slowly melts into an indulgent chocolate drink.

3. Winter chocolate bar

The Winter chocolate bar by German brand Alnatura contains a blend of spiced speculoos biscuits embedded in white organic-farmed chocolate.

4. Coffee and nuts

Ritter Sport Winter-Kreation Coffee & Hazelnut Milk Chocolate has been launched in Austria for the winter season. The product comprises whole milk chocolate with a cool melting coffee cream filling and hazelnut pieces. It retails in a 100g Knick-Pack.

5. Gianduiodka fusions

This line of products, created by Carlo Rotta, combines the exquisite gianduiotto chocolates from Turin and strong taste of Russian vodka. With this line of products, Carlo Rotta re-interprets traditional gianduiotto chocolates to give them a particular 'appeal' for the Russian market, and more generally, for all lovers of products with an intense innovative taste.

6. Travel with it

Fifth Dimension Chocolates' white chocolate Mini-Tablettes are made from single-origin cocoa from Madagascar (40% cocoa) combined with the finest Japanese matcha green tea. Each tablette contains a minimum of 25g of white chocolate. Fifth Dimension have wrapped these mini tablettes in stylish and innovative packaging, which can be re-used as an oyster card holder.
