

Welcome to Members' Regulatory Day 2022 An update on new global regulations: A focus on sustainability

We're looking forward to welcoming you to Leatherhead's Regulatory Day on 21 September, our first live event in three years! If you haven't had chance to visit us in Epsom before or attend one of our members-only days in the past, we do hope that you enjoy spending time in our fabulous home.

We hope that the programme we've put together is informative and that the networking sessions provide opportunities for you to meet with us and your industry peers.

The programme will provide an overview of the recently-established regulations in the UK, as well as technical updates on regulations in the EU and international markets. Sustainability has never been so important, and now is the time to look at designing and implementing robust and legally-compliant programmes that will protect the planet and its resources. Any sustainability programmes, whether it be farming, developing alternative ingredients or reducing plastic usage, must result in safe and healthy products for our families to consume.

Whilst our conference will speak of the recently-established regulations and how these can influence sustainability programmes, we have also been looking at emerging and evolving items that may potentially develop into regulations in the next few years. We will be presenting our expert opinions and views on these items in our forthcoming Annual Trends Report, which will be released shortly.

Wireless internet is available in the conference area, and we will provide details on the day. Feel free to tweet during the day using @leatherheadfood and #leatherheadmembers

Have a great day and please don't hesitate to ask one of the Leatherhead team if you have any questions.

Best wishes

Daryl Thomas
